

GREENSFELDER, HEMKER & GALE, P.C. and

Japan America Society of St. Louis, Center for International Studies, University of Missouri-St. Louis; Japan America Student Association at UMSL; Legal Services of Eastern Missouri; Missouri Asian American Bar Association; Mound City Bar Association; Organization of Chinese Americans; Women's Law Association; Young Asian-American Professional Association present

Restorative JUSTICE Lessons from Japan - How Cooperative Communities Can Reduce Crime

featuring:

JOHN O. Haley, William R. Orthwein Distinguished Professor of Law,
Washington University Law School

BONNIE MILLER, Restorative Justice Coordinator,
Family Court of St. Louis County

This lecture will provide an opportunity to hear about restorative justice. Professor John O. Haley will speak about his ideas and techniques to reduce crime and recidivism in our individualistic culture. Bonnie Miller from Family Court of St. Louis County will provide her insights on how Japan's community-based restorative-justice system may or may not impact America's crime problem. This program has been approved by the Missouri Bar to allow 1.2 CLE credits for attendance.

Wednesday 28 July 2010 • 11:30 am - 1:30 pm

Conference Room

Greensfelder, Hemker & Gale, P.C.

10 South Broadway, Suite 2000, St. Louis

Lunch provided courtesy of Greensfelder, Hemker & Gale, P.C.

Space is limited

R.S.V.P. Japan America Society at cisjas@umsl.edu or 314-516-5754

JOHN O. HALEY is the William R. Orthwein Distinguished Professor of Law at the Washington University School of Law in St. Louis where he regularly teaches contracts, transnational litigation, and comparative law. He is also an Affiliate Professor of Law at the University of Washington in Seattle. He holds degrees from Princeton University (A.B., 1964), Yale Law School (LL.B. 1969) and the University of Washington (LL.M. in Asian Law, 1971). Considered a leading American authority on Japanese law, he has authored numerous books and articles on Japanese and comparative law.

BONNIE MILLER, JD, MSW, has been the Restorative Justice Coordinator for the Family Court of St. Louis County since 2002, following over nineteen years of family law practice. She is responsible for coordinating the Victim-Offender Dialogue Program, Family Group Conferencing and Project GUNS for delinquent and status offense youth. She has introduced and coordinates Victim Impact Panels and Impact of Crime on Victim Classes for the Family Court. Bonnie is an adjunct professor at Washington University, School of Social Work. She helped organize and lead the St. Louis Area Restorative Justice Collaboration, is a member of the Missouri Restorative Justice Coalition, and speaks and trains on restorative justice.

