ASIAN CULTURE AND COMMUNITY

Economic policies focus of event

Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe has made Japan's economic revival his top priority. His proposed measures, branded "Abenomics," have stirred heated debates in Japan. Last March, he announced that Japan would join negotiations of the Trans-Pacific Partnership, a proposed free-trade agreement. The decision created a backlash because of fears that reducing trade barriers could threaten local firms and jobs.

The Japan-America Society will take a closer look at Japan's economy and international trade policies at "Japan Update." The event starts with a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Westin Galleria, 13340 Dallas Parkway.

Panel discussions will follow and include acting deputy U.S. trade representative Wendy Cutler, Keio University professor Fumihiro Kimura, University of Texas Chief Energy Economist Michelle Michot Foss, and Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport executive Christopher Poinsette. Former Dallas Mayor Ron Kirk will introduce Cutler. A networking reception is set for 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The event is $45 for members and $60 for others. Partial tickets for the panel sessions are $15 and $20. Register at jasdfw.org.

Islamic art coming to DMA

The Dallas Museum of Art will receive a long-term loan of one of the world's largest private holdings of Islamic art. The Keir Collection, which Edmund de Unger (1918-2011) assembled over five decades, includes about 2,000 works that span 13 centuries. It includes textiles, carpets, ceramics, rock crystal, metalwork and works on paper. The geographic range covers an area from the western Mediterranean to South Asia.

The collection will arrive at the museum in May on a 15-year renewable loan. Visit dma.org.

Arab perspective

Shibley Telhami will present "The World Through Arab Eyes" fora World Affairs Council program. Telhami is an Anwar Sadat professor for peace and development at the University of Maryland in College Park. He also serves on the board of Human Rights Watch and the U.S. Institute of Peace and is a nonresident senior fellow at the Saban Center at the Brookings Institution.

Much of what he has written covers how Arabs perceive the West.

"America remains a feared superpower in the Middle East," he has written. "The problem is not American credibility on the use of force; rather, they have a deep mistrust of U.S. aims."

The World Affairs Council's International Perspectives Series in partnership with the American Jewish Committee will bring Telhami to Dallas at noon Feb. 13 at the Park City Club, 5956 Sherry Lane in Dallas.

The cost is $40 for members and $55 for others. Visit dfwworld.org.
